

PROFESSIONAL
SECURITY & RISK
INSTITUTE

WHS – A Practical Approach

It is no secret based on my past blogs that I do not believe that there is such a thing as a safety risk, or a reputation risk, or a security risk .etc. they are just risks. This short course looks at the management of workplace health and safety using a more practical approach, one that does not rely on documentation to keep people safe.

During the WHS – A Practical Approach workshop, participants will be guided through the following:

- Risk management definitions
- Legislation and the Codes of Practice – why they do not make people safer
- Accountability for the management of WHS
- Integrating WHS into the management of enterprise risk
- A comprehensive understanding of each element of the ISO AS/NZS 31000 process and its application to WHS
- Incident management
- Managing issues during the project

Participants will be guided through the management process using real-world examples. In doing so, participants will be able to relate the workshop content to their own workplaces.

Courses will be presented on the same day in three 2-hour sessions utilising live streaming.

Cost

Participants have the option of undertaking the course as either accredited or non-accredited training. Those that choose the accredited option will be provided an assessment which, upon completion, will result in the awarding of a Certificate of Attainment for BSBWHS503 – Contribute to the Systematic Management of WHS Risk.

Course costs are as follows:

- Accredited: $850 (GST Exempt)
- Non-accredited: $660 (GST Inclusive)

Dates and Registration

Course Dates	Registration
21 st July 2020 (accredited)	Register here
21 st July 2020 (non-accredited)	Register here
24 th September 2020 (accredited)	Register here
24 th September (non-accredited)	Register here

About the Presenter

Rod Farrar is the principal of Paladin Risk Management Services and will be delivering your course.

Rod is an accomplished risk consultant with extensive experience in the delivery of professional consultancy services to Government, corporate and not-for-profit sectors.

Rod's Risk Management expertise is highly sought after as is the insight he provides in his risk management training and workshop facilitation. Rod was recognised by the Risk Management Institution of Australia as the 2016 Risk Consultant of the Year and one of the first five Certified Chief Risk Officers in Australasia.

Rod has written three eBooks, including the highly acclaimed Revolution de Risque – Challenging the Traditional way we Manage Risk. He has also spoken at conferences both in Australia and abroad. Rod is passionate about risk management and the benefits it can bring to an organisation and he brings this passion to his training.

